With the Washington administration directing industry's attention to the development of the Latin American trade, banking interests in Wall Street are hoping for a rapid upsurge of two-way trade which will require financing and strengthen the financial position of the southern countries.

War Disjoints Trade With Europe The European war, of course, has badly disjointed Europe's trade with South America, making transatlantic shipments in either direction difficult. Final Action Is Deferred Until Today To Permit Chief Executive Chance To Check All Angles.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Nov. 7. (AP)-President Roosevelt, in disclosing at a press conference today that he had held up the transfer of eight trans-Atlantic ships of the United States Lines to Panamanian registry, made it plain that he believed the United States was in no danger of becoming involved in a war.

If we thought there was any danger of our getting involved in war, he said, the Federal Maritime Commission probably would refuse to allow the transfer. That condition, he added, does not exist

He said he had requested a delay to give him time to check personally on questions of the relationship of the sale of American merchant ships to national defense and to the elimination of competition with foreign shipping lines.

Transfer Authorized. The Maritime Commission announced in Washington yesterday that it had authorized the transfer of registry of eight of the eleven vessels in the United States Lines fleet—a step which would allow them to carry on commerce with European belligerents.

Earlier in the day, Secretary of State Hull had declared his opposition to the proposed transfer, at negative the policy laid down in Hassett, sought comment from the President on Secretary of State Hull's statement in Washington today in which he expressed opposition to transfer of the shine to Panamanian registry on the grounds it would impair the integity of the neutrality act.

Mr. Roosevelt sent back word that he had no comment, had not been informed of Hull's statement and had not been in communication with the secretary.

Of all those who voted "yes" to the question—indicating their belief that participation was a mistake—more than two-thirds voted emphatically "yes," whereas less than the half of the "no" vote was emphatic. Why Did U. S. Enter? In a companion question in the same survey, the Institute asked

"Why do you think the United States entered the last World War?" The replies to this question were cross-correlated with the vote on whether American participation was a mistake.

The results show that those voters who think America should never have entered the war explain our participation chiefly on the grounds that the nation was "the victim of propaganda and selfish interest." Prominently blamed were such factors as "hysteria," "money men," "munitions

On the other hand, those who think American participation was not a mistake say the United States got into the war for "an ideal—to save democracy and pav the way for a permanent peace."
As a secondary reason, both groups mentioned a belief at the time that American rights and interests had to be protected.

Leslie Howard and Vivian Leigh recited "I can't dance in fancy pants," until they lost their broad English "A," Susan Myrick, of Macon, told the Civitan Club yesterday. She spent last summer in Hollywood to see that none of the cast in the filming of Margaret Mitchell's novel went in for the "honey-chile" school of southern speech. With her is Jere Wells.

As southern accents vary, even from Formwalt street to Pace's into their speech, Miss Myrick told Ferry: Miss Myrick began by in-structing the cast to speak the de-nationalized English of the legitimate stage, a language that treats the "r" with true southern con-

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 .- (A)-The ime-mellowed mystery of the disappearance of Justice Crater which has been given new prominence by his widow's efforts to collect double indemnity on $30,-000 worth of life insurance, began August 6, 1930.

Then he stepped into a taxi, after a round of night-clubs, and, although thousands of persons have professed to have seen him in various parts of the world since then, Crater has been nothing more than a phantom in the eyes of the world, an unconfirmed umor in the press.

Crater was a powerful figure in politics. He was well known in the gay places along Broadway. No one who shared his public or private life has been able to throw any light on the disappearance.

Five months after Crater's disappearance his wife returned to heir New York apartment. In a drawer she found, she said, cash and securities totaling $6,690, memoranda concerning debts, life insurance policies, his will and a check bearing his endorsement and dated August 30—24 days was back in school today—but not in Georgia.

The father, the Rev. David Brinkman, said he enrolled his son in North Augusta High school, across the state line in South Carolina. The fee for his son's out-of-state schooling, Brinkman asserted, would be $50.

After his son was sent home from Richmond Academy, the minister appealed to the state board of education, which declined jurisdiction, and to Governor Rivers. The state legal department ruled the Governor had no right to interfere, and the Augusta Board of Education refused to reconsider the case.

"It is noteworthy none of the boards... attempted to attack the righteousness and legality of my stand," Brinkman declared.

ATLANTA, GA., NOVEMBER 8, 1939.

For Conscience's Sake

Paul Brinkman, son of an Augusta evangelist, is now enrolled at the North Augusta High school, which is in South Carolina, and where he does not have to take any form of military training in order to secure his education.

Paul recently was expelled from Richmond Academy, which is the Augusta high school, because his father, on religious grounds, refused to permit his son to join the school R. O. T. C. The authorities at that school declared this military training was a compulsory item of the curriculum. The boy's father appealed in vain to the State Board of Education, which declared it a matter exclusively for solution by the local board. Brinkman Sr. then attempted to carry his appeal to Governor Rivers but the Governor, like the State Board of Education, found legal technicality on which to avoid the issue.

Now, Mr. Brinkman has to pay something more than $50 a year for his son's high school education, an expense he can but ill afford.

Richmond Academy is the only school in Georgia, supported by state school funds, which makes military training compulsory. This was revealed by a survey made by the Associated Press. In so far as known, the only grounds on which the Richmond school board attempts to justify its stand is that the academy is an old, historic educational institution which has always been a military school.

As a matter of simple logic, the Richmond Academy is persisting in a stand, in this case, which is totally at variance with the principles of America. If the Brinkmans had sufficient funds to carry their case to the highest authority, the United States supreme court, they could at least present strong argument that the expulsion of Paul from a tax-supported public school, on such grounds, is unconstitutional.

It does not matter whether the elder Brinkman is right, or not, in his objection to military training. That is a matter for his conscience to decide. It is to be presumed his beliefs are honestly in accord with his own interpretation of the Bible. He must be considered, until proof is presented to the contrary, as a truly conscientious objector.

Even the United States army, and the laws which govern enlistment therein, recognize the right of the conscientious objector to refuse to bear arms. This was true during the World War, when the selective draft made army service no longer a voluntary matter.

There are thousands of boys in Georgia who belong to the R. O. T. C. corps of their school. But, except at the Richmond Academy, their R. O. T. C. service is entirely voluntary, they are under no compulsion to take the course. It is presumed the fathers of these boys are not only willing, but glad their sons shall have this opportunity for rudimentary military training. Yet it is to be doubted if there is a father of these boys who would approve such compulsion as that exercised by the Richmond Board of Education in the Brinkman case .

Educational institutions supported by state funds, collected from all taxpayers, are supposed to be open to any boy or girl who can meet the scholastic requirements. To make acceptance of military training in such schools conditional for admittance, is to adopt the methods of Stalin, of Hitler and of Mussolini. It is placing the United States on the same plane with nations where dictators compel mere children to drill with miniature rifles.

It is a basic principle of America that educational opportunities shall be open to all alike. that no man shall be renalized for his religious beliefs, that freedom of conscience is a fundamental right of all.

If Richmond Academy wishes to be a strictly military prep school, that is its privilege, so long as it refrains from accepting state school funds for its support. It may rule itself while it is a private institution. But participation in the public school system carries with it an obligation. That obligation is refused when it bars its doors to any local youth who cannot undergo military training and, at the same time, obey the dictates of his conscience.

Safety in the Air

While European airmen are struggling for war mastery of the pathways of the skies, it is refreshing to examine a different kind of flying record that has been made by the commercial air lines in this country.

It is now more than seven months since any of the 17 scheduled airlines operating within the United States have had an accident involving either death or serious injury to a passenger. President Roosevelt, at a recent press conference, referred to this magnificent record and cited Chairman Robert H. Hinckley, of the Civil Aeronautics Authority, as the source of his information.

It is now revealed, by that authority, that the mileage traveled by ships of the 17 lines, in the seven-month safety period, is equivalent to 500,000,000 passenger miles. The planes have carried a total of more than 1,250,000 passengers and have actually flown 52,000,000 miles without an accident.

Prior to this time, the record for non-accident flight was 210,000,000 passenger miles in this country. As far as available records show, no other country has ever had an accident-free period even comparable with these.

The cold statistics of this report prove, irrefutably, that air travel must now be regarded as fully as safe as any other modern mode of transportation, and safer than some. Few are the transportation systems that can boast of such distances traveled without some sort of accident to passengers.

The time has evidently come, in the United States at least, when old or young, strong or infirm, fearful or bold, may alike climb on board any properly scheduled and regularly flown commercial plane and feel complete confidence they will be, gently and safely and comfortably, conveyed to whatever destination they wish.

While the United States is making such new records in commercial flight safety, most planes save those equipped for war have been ordered from European skies and belligerent nations find their pride in the numbers of enemy planes they can send crashing to death and destruc-

Georgia Libraries

Paucity of library facilities in Georgia is, undoubtedly, one of the principal reasons why this state, in some human developments, is behind the majority of her sister states of the

It is a startling and disturbing fact to learn, that 2,000,000 residents of Georgia do not have access to a public library, that only Texas and Pennsylvania have more people without library facilities. It is distressing to read that the per capita expenditure, in this state, for library books is only 10 cents per year.

Such facts as these explain many things which have puzzled and worried all of us with interest in the development and improvement of living conditions in our state. Without opportunity to read good books no man or woman can hope to understand life or to improve their own circumstances. Without books, well read and beloved books, man becomes but a clod, of no more importance in the scheme of things than the dumb brutes of the fields. There has just come from the press a magnificent contribution toward the better understanding of library needs and library opportunities in Georgia. It is a special "Georgia Library Edition," of The Lavonia Times, sponsored by the Georgia Library Association. It is a fine piece of work, with 25,0000 copies going the state and to places as far distant as Canada and Alaska.

The 36 pages of intensely interesting reading matter contain the writings of a list of contributors which, if catalogued here, would read like a roster of outstanding Georgia men and women of today. They are writers whose perception of the state's needs and whose familiarity with library service and the blessings of literature, make their contributions brilliant and inspiring. Men and women whose knowledge of their subjects make them authoritative and whose hopes for the future are reflected in the optimism of their dreams.

It is a splendid piece of work, this special edition, and all Georgia is obligated to everyone who had a part in its making, including Rush Burton, publisher of The Lavonia Times, his staff and his magnificent list of advertisers and contributors.

(From The Birmingham News.)
From Atlanta come reports that the Ku Klux Klan is active again. In Georgia and other southern cities, says a news story, crosses have been burned and demonstrations have been arranged The purpose of all this, it is alleged, is "to bring about a better understanding between the races That is a fine purpose. The purpose should gain 100 per cent support from every part of the south and nation. But if there is one way not to effect better race relations it is the way of the Klan. For the Klan's way is the way of secrecy and fear and illegal punishments and disdain of the law. The way of the Klan is distinctly not the way which to bring about better race relations. If the Klan is really sincere in its purposes, it will burn its nightshirts, call off its secret meetings, and send its members forth as individuals to live in justice and fairness with all peoples regardless

THE CAPITAL PARADE

BY JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

BILL FOR PREPAREDNESS WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 .- There are arresting signs that the reg-ular session of congress may be asked to appropriate more than $1,500,000,000 for the War Department alone. Since huge sums for the navy and a national defense deficiency appropriation of $275,-000,000 will also be requested, the total bill for American prepared-ness is going to be practive characteristics.

000,000 will also be requested, the total bill for American preparedness is going to be pretty staggering.

Nevertheless, if the best authorities are to be credited, every penny for the army is urgently needed. With a world war in progress, the state of the army ought to be a matter of grave concern. The army morale is excellent, and its top professionals are of unusually high type, but, speaking bluntly, the army is a mere skeleton. The fighting unit in modern warfare is the army corps. The United States army at full strength is planned to consist of nine corps. Backbone of the army corps is composed of the corps troops—heavy artillery, certain types of transport, medical, anti-aircraft, searchlight and signalmen. And of trained and supplied corps troops, the army has only enough for a single corps.

Furthermore, each corps, in addition to corps troops, is supposed to consist of two national guard divisions and one army division. While there are 18 national guard divisions (none near full strength) there are now only five army divisions to head up the corps. Existing ordnance, transport and other vital material is entirely adequate even for these five army divisions and 18 divi-sions of the national guard, and about half the material on hand is not of modern type. Finally, the army has never had the chance to practice mass maneuvers, which are as basic in modern military strategy as the army corps is in modern military organization.

INDIAN WARFARE No individual is to blame for this serious state of affairs. Successive general staffs and secretaries of war have attempted to correct it. But the War Department budget must go first to the budget bureau and then the White House and then back to the budget bureau and then through the proper committees of both houses of congress. Somethrough the proper it always suffers amateur improvement. In recent years, for example, the lawmakers have had a way of ear-marking large sums for airplanes, but making no provision for men to fly and take care of them. Thus the general staff has been forced to build up the air arm at the expense of other equally vital

Then, on top of its budgetary troubles, the War Department has had to deal with the senatorial and congressional passion for army posts. Due to the exigencies of the Indian wars, there are about 100 of these in the country. Senators and congressmen hold them as dear as their arms and legs, so that the army forces are hope-lessly dispersed all over the United States, unable to get the proper training, uselessly defying redskins who have long since been bundled off to reservations.

FOR DEFENSE ONLY Fortunately, however, the army's needs dent and Secretary of War Harry Woodring have already ordered the first mass maneuvers in the south. Under the President's proclamation of limited emergency, the regular army is now being to full peacetime strength of 280,000 and the national guard will also be increased to full peacetime strength of 320,000. Of the anticipated deficiency appropriation for national defense, about $120,000,000 will go to the War Department to house, feed, clothe and pay its new recruits.

Then in the next fiscal year the army needs money as follows:
(1) Between $600,000,000 and $700,000,000 for regular, recurring expenses. (2) About $200,000,000 for desperately needed additional material. (3) Between $700,000,000 and $850,000,000 for material which will give the nine army corps absolutely complete modern equipment. As will be seen, these sums come to more than the 500,000,000 request predicted above. The figure of $1,500,000,-000 was taken as a minimum, allowing for the possibility that not all the army corps equipment will be appropriated for in one year, since it will take two to manufacture.

Lest economizers take fright, it should be added that, when all material has been paid for, recurring army expenditures are expected to settle down at around $700,000,000 annually. This does not seem too much to pay for a hemispheric defense force.

He was telling me, as a funny story, his experiences on a visit of several months' duration he had paid to New York, a couple of years prior to our acquaintance-

He described his enjoyment of the theaters and other amuse-ments of the big town. He told so many things that, finally, I became puzzled at how he had found time to do so much running around and look after his job, too. He told me he had been in New York on a contract to paint a lot of those huge advertising signs on the blank sidewalls of buildings. You've seen 'em-four or five or 10 stories high and half block wide.

This Was His Explanation.

"Well," he said, "I was under contract to a big advertising agency that had the account for this sign I was painting. It was my job to find a suitable wall location, get permission from the wners to use it, and then paint the sign. I was paid a flat rate square foot covered and, out of this, paid my helper and bo my own paint and supplies. There was good money in the deal. "But" he continued. "I soon found that I could improve profits by a little hornswoggling. I tried exaggerating the number of square feet to one sign, first, o see if I could put it over. If they found out I was cheating, and called my hand, I could explain it as a mere error in calculation. And get away with the excuse once, or perhaps twice. But they never complained. Ham 'n Eggs Constitutionality. nstitutionality. Nov. 7.—

e proposed California dictatorp, disguised as an old-age pena scheme and known as hamsnip, disguised as an old-age pen-sion scheme and known as ham-and-eggs, rests on a broad base and ascends to absolute authority in one man. Like the old-fashion-ed basket masts of the American battleship, it is so designed that if part of it should be shot away the rest would remain. To this purpose it contains a clause pro-viding that if any portion should be declared unconstitutional by be declared unconstitutional by the federal supreme court the re-mainder would not be impaired. In the event of its adoption it would seem that any actions on many particulars would have to be fought up to the supreme court. It would seem also that some por-tions must accome destroyed.

travene the federal constitution. As to its constitutionality in California no question can be raised, because this document specifically repeals all clauses of the state constitution which conflict with its proposals. Moreover, it specifically forbids any court or other state authority to interfere with its administration by injunctions or otherwise.

tions must escape destruction on the ground that they did not con-

I have reported that ham-andeggs repeals labor's right to strike and picket, but I neglected to add that it also requires that every farm and factory in the state be compelled to produce to the ut-most and that every human being younger than 50 years and above the age of childhood be compelled ork at appointed tasks, as in Russia and Germany.

Sense of That is the sense of the clause forbidding Clause. any impairment of any capacity to produce goods, services, conveniences or com-forts. No provision is made to market or distribute such producion, but the administrator Owens, who is named in the text of the amendment, would clothed with other powers which could be exercised in that field.

The dictatorial purpose which won the indorsement of the California Communists and the state CIO under Communist domination apparent in the fact that the old-age pension plan, which is only a front for the dictatorship, undoubtedly would fall early in the game, leaving the dictatorship intact. The pension plan is based on an issue of worthless money, which would violate the federal constitution.

The indecent imposition on the hopes and fears of the aged and the appeal to the ignoble desires of younger citizens anxious to shirk their filial duties on their parents' pensions are no embarrassment to the promoters. One of them, Willis Allen, was convicted a few years ago of impos-ing on gray hairs with a preparation which aging persons hoped would disguise their years in the competition for jobs.

Pensions So the pension To Go. scheme would disappear quickly, but Mr.
Owens, as administrator, would still have under his hand the entire treasury of California and all the funds of all the cities, counties and public boards, commissions and agencies, all in good money, not counterfeit pension warrants The authors of the amendment are shrewd in their choice of spots in which to drop in the words "may" and "shall." They say the dictator "may" use warrants to pay rent for his unlimited number of branch offices and their equipment, which means that he may also use real money. They say public employes "may" accept their pay in warrants, which means that they don't have to. But they use the word "shall" in defining his powers.

For instance, his tax commis sion, selected by him, "shall" have power to make rules and regula-tions having the force of law, for the collection of a three per cent gross income tax. And these rules necessary, enforceable by the po lice power of the state, direction of the commissioner selected by Mr. Owens. That makes Mr. Owens a one-man legislature, with authority to inflict any penalties he may impose for violation of his own laws.

No Dodging There is no get Authority. ting away from his authority. He appoints his own chief deputy and three assistant administrators, and ne nominates six men, of whom the governor must sele the tax commission. His chief deputy is to be president of the pro d state bank, the repository o all the tax money, but Mr. Owens is to be the chairman of the board with the right to name four of the seven directors.

There is a recall provision, but the next paragraph attends to that very neatly, for it provides that if Mr. Owens should be recalled or die his chief deputy "shall" succeed him in all his offices and powers.

They limit the tenure of most of their appointive offices and powers to 1944, when they shall become elective, the idea being that by 1944 elections will not be in California under Communist rule.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH McGILL.

THE FACT-FINDING MOVEMENT Every now and then a gentleman drops off a train in Atlanta, goes to his hotel and then seeks out the address of the Citizens' Fact Finding Movement of Georgia. The mail grows heavier and heavier. The requests are tremendous. Five national magazines have had articles about the organization. Six targe universities are interested. A half dozen states are investigating to determine if they, too, can have such an organization.

Here in Georgia we probably know less about it than is known in any other state.

It is a volunteer organization. It is not subsidized by the govern-

It is a volunteer organization. It is not subsidized by the government or by a "pressure" organization. That is why it has done such a great work. It is perhaps the state's most important organization. It sincerely is to be hoped it will be independently endowed and that all real citizens will come to know the organization.

Most of the organizations of the state, including its teachers, its cditors, its United Farmers and others, are associated with the movement. They do not merely "associate" themselves. They do actual work, taking their turn as monthly chairmen and secretaries.

THE TEN PROBLEMS

This month, for instance, agriculture was a topic. Robert M. Stiles, a dirt farmer of Bartow county, former president of the famed Euharlee Farmers Club, and present head of the United Georgia Farmers, was the November chairman. Mrs. Troy Rucker, president of the Georgia Home Demonstration Council, was the November secretary. The meeting was last week.

Dean Paul Chapman, of the University of Georgia College of Agriculture, was the chairman. Dean Chapman went to work. His premise was that no problem can be solved before it is discovered. Therefore, he asked 1,000 well-informed persons to list, and rank in order of importance, what each considered the most important farm problems of Georgia. To ald them a suggested list of 25 problems was placed in their hands.

It should be understood that Georgia ranks third among the states of the nation in farm population, only Texas and North Carolina having more citizens on farms. The ten most important problems as submitted by the 1,000

Low per capita farm income, living-at-home, eroded and impoverished soil, one crop system, landlord-tenant relations, inadequate markets, low yields per acre, lack of pastures and roughage, land resources not fully used, lack of functioning farm organizations.

It was admitted there were many other problems of importance, and that these might not be the ten most important. They were those selected by the 1,000 persons polled.

AN ANALYSIS Taking up just a few, because of space, it is found that the agricultural per capita cash income for Georgia is, on the average, over a period of years, $100 less than the average income for the United States. If there are five in a family this means an income for the family of $500 less than the farm family income. For the state as a whole it means we have a deficit of $148,000,000 each year as compared with the remainder

No politician gets up and discusses and analyzes this sort of ing. They bawl about taxes, about "benefits" for the farmer, tell thing. ma few jokes and ask for his vote.

The Fact Finding Movement does not stop with finding the problems. It suggests ways and means. For instance, ten steps were suggested as a remedy for the first farm problem, that of low income. The story goes on, four-fifths of all the people in the south eat oduced outside the region. The percentage, they say, is not correct, for Georgia. But we do know there are 71,000 Georgia farms without a cow; 73,000 without a hog; 30,000 without a chicken; 18,000 without a garden; and 100,000 without an orchard. large or small. This means thousands and thousands of farm families do not have an adequate diet.

Steps toward solving that problem are listed in the monthly The third problem is discussed. Erosion has destroyed in Georgia an area of cropland equal to 12 Georgia counties; has washed one-half the top soil from an area equal to 70 counties; and the fertility of 90 per cent of the land has been reduced through grow-

Fifteen steps are listed as ways of reducing soil erosion.

And so it goes with each problem. There is not merely the stating of the problems, but an answer.

This was brilliantly done by the best agricultural minds in the state. Ahead are discussions of industry and commerce; health, education, public welfare, penal system, tax system, federal activity. The monthly bulletins are distributed free. Because of the limited to 12,000. Get them. Send in some money. When the politicians appear next summer be ready to ask them some questions. Don't be content with a few jokes, a ringing statement about the farmer's friend, and a declaration that

The most important organization in Georgia, co-ordinating all the worthwhile organizations, is making itself felt slowly but surely.

Fertilizer Convention Hears Plea To Keep Out of Europe

'If We Attempt To Crush Dictatorships Abroad We May End With One Here,' Ex-Congressman Pettengill Warns.

If the United States attempts to crush dictatorships abroad, it may end up with one at home, Samuel B. Pettengill, former congressman from Indiana, warned last night in his address before the dinner meeting of the convention of the National Fertilizer Association, now in session at the Biltmore hotel.

"Modern war is totalitarian. It commandeers every resource of men, money or material. Therefore it can be fought only by totalitarian methods as now in force in England and France. If we go in for crushing dictatorships elsewhere, we will have one at home which we may never get rid of. Modern politicians are reluctant to surrender power," he declared.

Critical of Administration.

A conservative Democrat, Pettengill views several of the acts of the present administration as provocative of war.

"I am strictly in favor of keeping out of Europe," he said. "To begin with, I wouldn't cut corners begin with, I wouldn't cut corners on the neutrality act. The proposed transfer of United States ships to Panama registry is nothing but a subterfuge, and if approved by the Maritime Commission will be an indication of prowar sympathies in Washington.

Pettengill stressed that 25 years ago the world was bathed in blood to get rid of the Kaiser, and nitrogen, phosphate acid and that it got Hitler.

A conservative Democrat, Pet-agill views several of the acts of flict would not affect supplies and prices of fertilizer.

Charles J. Brand, executive secretary and treasurer of the association, said "in contrast to the frantic price rise in 1914," fer-tilizer prices declined instead of rising at the outbreak of hostilities in September. U. S. Well Supplied.

INCREASE IS CITED IN TRAFFIC CASES

Haire Backs Proposal For Special Court With Arrest Figures.

Arrest Figures.

Traffic charges compose more than half of the 77,492 cases booked thus far this year by the Atlanta police department, Councilman Howard Haire, author of a measure to establish a special traffic court, said yesterday.

Of the 77,482 cases, 39,012 were charges of violation of traffic ordinances, while the remaining 38,470 included all other offenses ranging from vagrancy and petit larceny to murder.

He contended that the number of arrests, which will be recorded at the close of this year, will be more than double the 49,388 cases, booked by the police department for the entire year of 1935. Only 11,800 were charged with traffic law violations in 1935.

"Under our present system of trial, women, from the finest and most refined families, charged with minor traffic law infractions must attend police court where the dregs of society are congregated." Haire said. "In all reason, we should make some arrangements to segregate traffic viogated," Haire said. "In all reason, we should make some arrangements to segregate traffic violators from those for whom the police have combed the local underworld. When more than half of the cases constitute one group of offenses—traffic—it seems only common justice that we should take steps to protect them as much as possible."

as possible."

Haire compared the 77,482 cases made thus far this year with the totals and the traffic cases made in former years. The records

Variety Club Will Provide Films for Those Who Can't Get Out.

Movies are to be taken to the shut-ins.

The Atlanta Variety Club, as organization of men connected with the show business, announced yesterday a plan under which a special truck will carry the latest motion picture sound equipment to Atlanta institutions. And thus provide means by which the most recent Hollywood releases may be shown the shut-

The plan will be put into operation within the next few weeks, William K. Jenkins, president of the organization, said.

"Atlanta has 40 institutions in which persons are unable to see motion pictures," Jenkins explained. "They, through no fault of their own, either by physical handicap or other queer turns of life, cannot visit the theaters in the city which show movies. Now through the efforts of the Variety Club those unfortunates will see Club those unfortunates will see pictures and what's more they will not have to pay one cent for a ticket."

Operation of the plan will be conducted by the Heart of Variety, the club's charity organization.

At the first monthly meeting of the new organization, the charter officers were re-elected to serve a full term. They are William K. Jenkins, chief barker; Harry G. Ballance, assistant chief barker; Charles E. Kessnich, second assistant; R. B. Wilby, dough guy, and E. E. Whitaker, property manager. Members of the board of directors are John Ezell, W. A. U. S. NEUTRALITY

Soviet Leader Calls It 'Com pletely Hypocritical'; Cites 'Aid' to Allies.

MOSCOW, Nov. 7 .- (AP)-The United States came in for another Soviet blast today as Russia celebrated the twenty-second anniversary of the Communist revolution with a mighty display of military power in flag-bedecked Red

Georgi Dimitroff, secretary-general of the Communist Interna-tional writing in the official magazine of the organization attacked American neutrality "completely hypocritical."

Allied "Arms Factory." He accused the United States of becoming the "arms factory for England and France" and added: "The American bourgeois actually is the main supplier of war materials to Japanese imperialism, thus kindling the war in the Far East in order to weaken both Japan and China—then consolidate her own position in China.' Follows Molotoff Lead.

Dimitroff's attack followed Prenier Foreign Commissar Vyacheslaft Molotoff's keynote speech of the celebration yesterday in which he belabored the United States, Britain and France, predicted the end of capitalism and by inference urged Communists in foreign countries to strive toward that War Commissar Klementi Voro shiloff, addressing the thousands massed in Red square today, asserted that although the Soviet Union was neutral the nation 'must be prepared."

"The Soviet government watches the international situation and will react to every event," Voroshiloff declared.

ROOSEVELT IGNORES RED ANNIVERSARY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 .- (AP)-President Roosevelt sent no mes-sage of congratulation to President Kalinin, of Russia today on the anniversary of the Communist revolution as he did last year and on some previous anniversaries.

No official comment was forth coming, but it was recalled that relations with Russia recently have been less than cordial.

BRITISH SUPPLY BOARD SET UP IN U. S., CANADA

LONDON, Nov. 7 .- (AP)-Great Britain set up a "British supply board in Canada and the United States" today to buy war materials in the two countries.

Canadian orders will be placed by the Canadian supply board di-rected by Wallace Campbell, Windsor, Ont., Ford automobile executive.

Arthur B. Purvis, Montreal tire company head, is to direct pur-chases in the United States.

Difficult To Believe Leopold and Wilhelmina Entertained Least Illusion About Fate of Their Joint Initiative, Analyst Declares.

The Texas Aggie football team coached by Homer Norton is a slight contradiction of the oft-expressed belief that great Texas teams are world beaters only in their own league.

From time to time there have been cases made against the Southwest conference along the line of thought that they all play the same type of football. They throw the ball a lot, conplay the same type of football. They throw the ball a lot, con-centrate on scoring and forget somewhat about defense. And consequently when the Texas teams venture out against teams of the varsity team by the Elis' from other sectors they find it tough to win, the charges read.

But the Texas Aggies, while playing most of the time in their own league, have nevertheless been most impressive against his able first lieutenant. The other two good outside elevens. They defeated Santa Clara, 7 to 3, and Villanova, unbeaten going into the game, 33 to 7.

The Aggies are one of the five unbeaten and untied teams of the nation, with seven straight victories. They have Southern Methodist, Rice and Texas left to play.

On the whole, the Aggies have played—and will play—a On the whole, the Aggies have played—and will play—a ball team which he yesterday demuch stronger schedule than Tennessee. And if they come on scribed as "the worst I've coached through unbeaten, they will be seriously considered as a Rose at any time at Yale" and his action Bowl contender.

Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College is at College his assistants hardly could be termed as a distinct shock to those Station, Texas, with an enrollment of 5,813 men. Coach Homer Hill Norton spent 13 years at Centenary as head coach and assistant coach as training for his present job.

The Aggies don't seem to have any Ernie Lains or other great nationally publicized stars. Success of the team is traceable to a lot of highly organized teamwork. Homer Norton doesn't write for any national slick-paper

The entry for national football honors from College Station, Texas, simply does a great job of playing the game of football and may, conceivably, wind up in one of the two great bowls—the Rose or the Sugar Bowl.

Of the five unbeaten and untied teams left, all five, strange are bowl eligibles. Usually, at this time of the season, one or two have conference restrictions. But not so in the case of Tennessee, Texas A. & M., Cornell, Notre Dame and Duquesne. They're all footloose and fancy free.

MAKING THE EXPERTS MOAN.

Some people are of more than half a mind these days that football experts are no more than turf writers with jockey caps will answer the opening whistle

The picking is remindful of the experting of the big hoss slike the Kentucky Derby.

But there is a case for the so-called experts, at that.

There is no way of forestelling that Gonzaga and Port. races like the Kentucky Derby.

But there is a case for the so-called experts, at that. There is no way of foretelling that Gonzaga and Portland, not to be confused with the cement people, will lick vaunted St. Mary. Nor that San Francis will take the measure of Santa Clara. Tennessee Poly ties Vandy, Vandy beats Rice and Sam Houston Teachers beat Rice.

Michigan has its Harmon and its harmony. Illinois has its Zuppke. But Illinois has no victories. Michigan is unbeaten. Illinois stomps Michigan. Purged Pitt beats Duke, and Duquesne, that Dandy Dan, beats Pitt.

North Carolina beats Wake Forest, 36 to 6. Duke barely beats Wake Forest, 6 to 0, and is pushed all over the field. Boston College loses to Florida and then beats Auburn. Fordham loses to Alabama and Tulane and then wallops Pitt, winner over Duke.

Kentucky beats Vandy and then ties Alabama. Both first times in Kentucky's history. Ole Miss defeats Vandy for the first time in history.

There are a lot of other instances in the strange trend. And vet is it so strange? Coaches seem to have the right answer.

Material is more evenly distributed. Even the smaller schools are getting better men. There is better coaching in the preparative in years. The cinemast active in years. are getting better men. There is better coaching in the prep schools. Boys are going to college with sounder knowledge of cinnati Reds won the National the fundamentals. Consequently, present-day sophomores are league pennant, yet they are ex-

The roaches who insist the time is coming when no teams will go through a schedule unbeaten are probably right. Because the time appears to be coming when teams which used to be scheduled for rest games will no longer be the soft touches as of yore.

And it's all making for better football. Just look around and see what crowds the games are drawing in all sections. This is ample proof that the trend is highly acceptable to the public. Then, too, when all teams find it difficult to go through unheaten, there won't be so much pressure on the coaches. Most of them will be in the same punt, as the English would say.

Pond, Assistants Will Be Retained,' Says Athletic Director.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 7 .-(A)-Malcolm Farmer, Yale's athletic director, disclosed tonight that head football coach Raymond W. (Ducky) Pond and his staff "will be retained" next season, squelching rumors of a probable change.

Pond took over the job in 1934 along with Earle (Greasy) Neale, members assured of their posts are Ivan Williamson, Bill Renner, Emerson Nelson and Gerry Ford.

News that the entire group of coaches will return in 1940 came as the student body mulled over Pond's angry criticism of the footdemoting nine regulars.

familiar with the Yale setup, the disclosure had a surprise element mainly because a statement of this sort usually has been delayed until long after the gridiron cam-paign has been placed in the moth-balls.

Farmer said: "There will be no changes in our football coaching. The coaching staff is very good and will be re-tained, win, lose or draw."

The Yale team, defeated by Pennsylvania, Michigan and Dartmouth and victorious over Columbia and Army, still has to face Brown and its arch rivals, Princeton and Harvard.

Meanwhile the demoted regulars, masking their feelings, worked feverishly to regain their status prior to last week's Dartmouth 33-0 debacle.

Hawk Is Real Star of Jacket Line; Another Scrimmage Today.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.

To Hawk Cavette goes the honor of showing more under the balt than any other Tech player this season. Weighing 200 pounds, a great punter, but slow afoot, the amiable Cavette was shifted from the backfield to tackle at the close of last season.

In spring practice, Cavette was moved to guard and has stayed there ever since, starting and play-ing great games against all Jacket

HAWK DIFFERENT. But the Hawk is different, just as Junior Anderson, a senior last year, was. He has that little something that makes him never give up, even though odds are over-whelmingly against him. And he has continued his fine kicking, coming out of the line on punts. It was the Hawk who placed one of the hardest blocks ever seen on little Bee team guard. The Red Shirts had punted the ball, the varsity safety man had gathered it in and Mack Tharpe was shouting with all his might, "knock 'em down, you linemen." Hood was closing in on the runner fast. Cavette appeared as if from nowhere, took a flying dive and hit the red-head like a bolt of lightning. Claude Bond swore Hood sailed five feet in the air. Other spectators thought it more or less. But all agreed such a block hasn't been seen on Grant field in quite a while.

for this game.

The veteran Jim Fordham will get the starting nod at fullback, but Hunnicutt will be his first assistant and more than likely will split the playing time.

Matthews has been improving steadily for the past two weeks, and the little Memphis senior was running first string in this afternoon's bruising offensive scrim-mage against a rugged freshman Hunnicutt also looked good. He replaced Fordham in the lineup after about half the rough work had elapsed, and drove furiously for one touchdown and ripped off several other nice gains.

There were no injuries in the scrimmage, but Tommy Witt slightly injured his knee in a kicking drill early in this afternoon's workout and had to skip the rough stuff. He'll be able to play, Train-er Fitz Lutz said, and likely will be in the starting lineup.

Alex McCaskill, generally regarded the best end on the squad, was another who did not get into the scrimmage, and coaches were worried over the prospect he may not be able to go. Alex suffered a bruised back in last Friday's Mercer game and it is still both-ering him. If he isn't able to go, Green Keltner will get the call

The affair will create more than the usual interest in deb circles, as it is an attractive departure from the series of luncheons, teas and dinner parties which have filled the calendar for the season.

Invitations issued yesterday for the party were on heavy yellow paper, lettered in black and deco rated with sketches appropriate of the affair. It reads as follows:

"The Thomases (Mr. and Mrs. Julian) and Marian Candler are inviting you to meet Jean, the Olivers' debutante daughter. Riders meet at the Olivers' at 7:30 o'clock and breakfast at Lakemoore at 10 o'clock. Sunday, November 19. Please let us know whether to put your name in the SALLY has just been informed that one of the city's loveliest belies will wed an attractive "out-of-towner" in December. The young lady in question is of the brunet type of beauty and has one sister and two brothers. She attended the University of Georgia, where she was a pledge to the Phi Mu sorority. She is noted for her winning smile and gracious manner.

Unfortunately, the groom-elect, who is a graduate of the United States Military Academy at West Point, is not a resident of At-lanta. Which doubtless means that the popular young couple will not reside here after their JANE LERCUX will have en-Joyed the unusual experience of attending debut parties in two different cities on consecutive evenings when she makes her appearance tonight at Julia Block's supper-dance at the Driving Club.

Jane, the attractive daughter of the Charles LeRouxs, boarded a plane at Candler field yesterday for a brief trip to Birmingham, Ala. Last evening she was among sought-after belles attending the brilliant debut reception and dance of her cousin, Isahel Meade. Isabel, a stately and slender brunette, visited Jane here two years ago, and is pleasantly re-membered by her hostess' friends in this city. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hardeman S. Meade, she graduated from Hollins College last June, and is one of Birmingham's most attractive debutantes

Jane will arrive by plane today Just in time to attend Julia's party this evening, which will be one of the most colorful social affairs of the season here.

How to Make a Splendid Cough Remedy at Home

A Big Saving, and It's So Easy! No Cooking!

Cough medicines usually contain a large quantity of sugar syrup—a good ingredient, but one which you can easily make at home. Take 2 cups of granulated sugar and 1 cup of water, and stir a few moments until dissolved. No cooking! No trouble at all.

Then get from your druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of truly wonderful medicine for coughs due to colds. It makes a real saving for you, because it gives

MISS FLORENCE JONES.

Charming Florence Jones, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Jones, has the type hand any artist would delight to paint.

The shape of the hand denotes an artistic temperament, blended with a practical nature. Such a combination bespeaks a happy well-rounded life. The hand denotes a vivid imagination, tremendous love of beauty and sincere sympathy. It is most responsive to color, to music, to eloquence and, indeed, to beau ty in all forms.

The hand shows great energy and continual restlessness. She will never remain inactive, but will rest from one occupation by

Your Complexion Needs Gentle Care When the Weather Gets Rough

NewLightCream Replenishes Oil In Dry Skin

By Lillian Mae.

A skin that is dry requires a heavier cleansing cream than does the oily type of complexion, but perhaps you find the liquifying cream so much easier to use that you forego that which is best and use your preference. You need? very up-to-the-minute cosmetic manufacturers has for you now a suitable cream that's very easy to

With a texture that is truly feather light, it has the luscious consistency of fleecy, airy clouds and its gentle, but insistent action quickly and efficiently removes dirt, make-up and similar foreign matter, at the same time replenishing the oils which a more harsh cream would take from your skin.

It is just as easy to use as a liquifying cream, and leaves your-skin so soft and velvety that you realize it can't cause it to become dry or drier.

The possession of a skin that is inclined to be too olly might also be delighted with this new cleansing agent for the reason that its regular use will make it unnecessary to employ a massage or night cream regularly, as should be done in connection with a too thin cleanser.

even its appearance. It really looks very whipped-creamish and delectable.

If you'll phone me, I'll tell you the name of the new cream and where it may be purchased. If you do not live in Atlanta, write me, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

Woman's Quiz

Q. Why is salt used with ice to freeze ice cream?

A. The freezing point of water is lowered by dissolving salt in it. Ice is frozen water, and when salt is mixed with it the freezing point is lowered, causing the ice to melt, because it was frozen at a higher temperature than is required to freeze the mixture. When ice and salt are packed around a container of a suitable mixture of cream, the of a suitable mixture of cream, the cream, which eventually is frozen into ice cream. The cream is not frozen by absorbing cold from the ice, but the freezing is caused by extraction of heat until the temperature is lowered to the freezing point. Typical examples of contagious disease which are practically not communicable otherwise than by contact are scabies (pronounced ska-bi-ez), commonly called the itch; tinea, otherwise called dermatophytosis, ringworm, foot itch, athlete's foot—the fungus lives in the lining of shoes or stockings, on the floor where the affected person has walked; and gonorrhea.

Distinction between contagious and infectious cannot be too arbitrary in practice.

HollywoodHabit MY DAY How Missouri For the Guests To Fall Asleep

By Sheilah Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 7.—Greer Garson is paddling a boat in Louis B. Mayer's swimming pool, when David Selznick, who lives near by, pokes his head over the fence, and without knowing that Greur is in the boat, yells—"Hey, L. B.—What are you going to do about Greer Garson?" Mayer is a uttle startled, pauses a second, and says cautiously—"Why, what's it to you?" "I have a picture for her," says Selznick. "Oh, is that all?" says Mayer. "Come for dinner and we'll talk it over." But they never do get to talk it over. they never do get to talk it over, because even though Selznick comes for dinner, he falls asleep in the middle—like the dormouse in "Alice In Wonderland." It's quite the thing in Hollywood for guests to fall asleep halfway through the soup. Selznick is per-haps the biggest offender. PITTSBURGH, Pa.—I visited a training school for boys between the ages of 12 and 18 yesterday. It is about 16 miles out of St. Louis and is run on the cottage system with much land around it. The boys work three hours of the day on academic school courses and four hours on actual academic school courses and four hours on actual labor jobs.

Yesterday being Sunday, the WPA orchestra and the choral leader were putting on a concert in which the boys themselves participated. The commentator told the story of the music which the orchestra was about to play and the boys joined in the singing. Sometimes it was a quartet of boys trained under the WPA recreational project by the choral director, sometimes it was a song by the entire glee club.

The boys never had any time to weary of too much orchestral music, nor did they have to sit still too long, because periodically they rose and sang as loudly as they wanted.

It seemed to me a very well planned entertainment. When it cause periodically they rose and sang as loudly as they wanted.

It seemed to me a very well planned entertainment. When it was brought to an end by the singing of "God Bless America," I could not help thinking that these boys, handicapped at the start but with a future still before them, were singing this song with more spirit than did the audience at the Kiwanis Club on Saturday.

As we went out, a sextet of rather elderly musicians was playing on the lawn. The musicians' union has sponsored the music project in St. Louis.

The NYA representatives came to see me after I returned to the train and told me of some interesting projects in the state of Missouri. One of them, a project in the southern part of the state in the Ozark region, has taught the boys how to use stone for building purposes. It appears that they have not been slow in applying this knowledge to their own needs and there is an "epidemic" of stone houses in that part of the state. In the Ozark area, the local court judges have sponsored many of the NYA projects and they say that delinquency has been cut down 65 per cent as a result of this

Since I have been thinking so much about boys and young people these last few days, it seems an appropriate time to mention a which has just appeared, called "Parenthood in a Democracy," by Margaret Lightly and Leroy E. Casserole Pork Chops Join Fall Weather Menus

By Sally Saver.

There's no question about it, brisk weather and pork chops are a popular pair. They get on fa-mously together. And when pork chops come from the oven in a new style aluminum casserole which can go straight to the table not one drop of the savory good-ness is lost. Here is a pork chops sserole which you will like:

Pork Chops Casserole. 6 pork chops, 1-2-inch thick Salt and pepper 4 medium apples, peeled and

4 medium sweet potatoes, peeled and sliced

Few drops tobasco sauce 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce 1 medium onion, chopped

1 cup water Wipe chops, brown in hot frying pan, and place in casserole Sprinkle with salt and pepper Place apples and potatoes in layers on chops, sprinkle with salt and pepper and add water to which the sauces have been added.

nomy, is this: Pork Chops With Spaghetti.
Open a can of cooked spaghetti and place spaghetti in a lightly greased casserole. Brown pork chops in skillet on top of stove. Remove chops and place on top of spaghetti in casserole. Over spaghetti in casserole. Over spaghetti and chops pour 1-2 cup tomato sauce. Cover and place in moderate oven about 30 minutes. Serve with spiced apples, peaches or prunes. A green salad with either of these casseroles will complete a meal.

Choose glazed chintz, cretonne, callico, percale, gingham or sateen for this gift set. You'll enjoy making it. The pattern (including step-by-step sew chart) is very easy to follow.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1854-B is designed in one size. It requires for shoe bag 1 1-3 yards of 35 or 39-inch fabric together with 5-8 yard machine-made ruffling. Hatbox cover requires 1 1-2 yards, together with 1 1-2 yards. Pork Chops With Spaghetti.

Employing Trap Bid in Bridge Is Ethical

By Harold Sharpsteen.

Yes, my dear lady back in Lexington, Ky., it is entirely "ethical and sportsmanlike" to lay traps in bridge, both in bidding and in play even though you may feel there should be a law against such

Of course it is not legal for your opponents to employ such un-couth devices as bluff hesitation passes, emphatic card-signals, sly winks, nods and sighs, but there is nothing in the laws of bridge to prevent a player from passing with a big hand or bidding with a

Bidding rules say you may open the bidding, holding 2 1-2 to 3 honor tricks minimum, but you are not forced to open the bidding holding all 8 honor tricks. The same is true after an opponent opens the bidding. You may bid or pass, as you see fit, regardless of your honor-trick strength. Bridge laws and bidding "rules" Bridge laws and bidding "rules" are two different things. The "rules" serve as bidding guides.

LEGACY OF LOVE

Rita Gets Note From Tom Saying He Will Be Back in Afternoon

BY KATHRN BEMIS.

FINAL INSTALLMENT.

Rita was flabbergasted. Then she reminded herself that she could always expect the unexpected from Delores and shouldn't be too surprised now. Rita laughed aloud. Delores was needed by that poor dear count? Delores had her own system of living. When things didn't move her way in one place, next week she packed up and went on to new scenes where parhaps they might. She couldn't endure being ignored. As for having a grown daughter around-Rita's lips drew into a tight line. If she weren't careful, she'd be feeling sadly neglected, even lonely again.

She ransacked her mind for an answer to her future. It was getting almost too warm for comfort now on the desert. From where she sat, she could see dozens of hotel guests preparing for departure in motor cars, others waiting for the railroad station bus; trunks, bags, suiteases, were being piled into station wagons. None of the gay younger crowd seemed to be playing about this morning.

Rita attempted to rise above the checkmate she had encountered, throw off the deep dejection waiting to pull her into its depths. She had no desire for the food and drink now being set before

She asked the pretty little waitress, "What's become of everybody today, Nellie?"

"Goodness me, Miss Rhodesthey're checking out so fast I can't keep track of them. You leaving,

"No-not just yet. Although-I haven't exactly decided." "That's fine. We're sure going to miss your friends, though. Miss Calling All Experts Sheen, Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Handy were awfully nice. And of course it gave the place an air -having a real countess around." Rita smiled vacantly, tried not to show her agitation. Tom and Harry gone? What did it mean?

And had they taken Eva? Rita slowly sipped black coffee seriously pondering this piece of news. Such extraordinary friendship existing in that trio! It should prove to her exactly what Tom Cleveland was. Birds of a feather? She tried to argue herself firmly into believing this, then began inventing excuses for Tom at every turn. Had she no pride, no self-respect? But it didn't seem important to her now whether she had or not.

Her spirits had slumped to last

Downs Tells Court That Gun Is 'Customary,' as He's a 'Hi-Jacker.'

Hugh Downs, who admitted in court that he was a "hi-jacker," was convicted of carrying a pistol without a license yesterday and was sentenced to serve 12 months imprisonment by Judge John S. McClelland in Fulton criminal court

Leonard Crawford, assistant solicitor, said Downs told the jurors that he was a "hi-jacker" and as-serted that it was customary for him to carry a gun. The charge against him arose last March in an accident on Piedmont avenue when Downs was accused of becoming involved in an argument with Golden Mitcham, of Stone Moun-

A jury found him guilty of car-rying the weapon, but it found him not guilty on a charge of using profane language to Mitcham and W. A. Leach, filling station oper-ator, for which he had been indicted by the grand jury. City officers made the cases against

Want to Feel like a Big Sh

DROBABLY you're a big shot already to someone, so you know something of how good it feels.

What we mean is, how'd you like to feel like you used to think a big shot must feel, cruising along in his big brawny Buick, envy of every youngster in town?

Fact is, a big brawny Buick - this year's beauty of a Buick - is within your reach right now, if you just put your mind to it.

A husky headlong 107-horsepowered giant valve-in-head straight-eight can be yours to command - you can roll around town in the staunch and steady carriage that's sure big, beautiful and a bearcat in action when its boss gives the word! Only car in the world
